

Tackling a challenging part

Adam Arkin relishes new role on FX's 'Sons of Anarchy'

BY LYNN ELBER
AP TELEVISION WRITER

LOS ANGELES (AP) — When Adam Arkin signed on for "Sons of Anarchy," he didn't have reservations about his role as a slick white separatist or the FX drama's dark heart.

But he admits to feeling a bit "intimidated" about working with fellow series newcomer Henry Rollins, actor and musician of Black Flag punk-rock fame.

"I'm a 50-something square character actor," Arkin said. "There was every possibility he'd have said, 'We'll do our work together, but don't talk to me. I don't want to hear any of your bourgeois domestic'" patter.

Instead, Arkin found Rollins to be "incredibly warm" and a colleague who approached his work with discipline.

Arkin has equally kind words about "Sons of Anarchy" and the cast that welcomed him despite his role as a big troublemaker in season two. He's careful to correct a questioner who refers to the law-breaking motorcycle gang members as the drama's heroes.

"They're not heroes; they're the protagonists," said Arkin, whose wide-ranging TV ("Northern Exposure," "Chicago Hope") and film career includes the latest Coen brothers release, "A Serious Man." He's also in demand as a director and was interviewed by phone from Dallas, where he was working on a new sitcom.

His interpretation of Ethan Zobelle, his "Sons of Anarchy" character, emerged after discussions with series creator Kurt Sutter. Charlie Hunnam, Katey Sagal (Sutter's wife) and Ron Perlman star in the show.

"We talked about my own ethnicity and the irony of having someone with a Jewish background playing a white separatist, nationalist character," Arkin said.

He also felt that, as written, Zobelle's formal manner of speech implied he was European-born, and the actor got Sutter's OK to play him with a faint accent.

"Again, it's an interesting irony. I felt here was this guy espousing how America had to get back to pure values and yet he himself was not from here," Arkin said.

The idea of tackling a challenging part — and one that goes somewhat against the grain of previous work — was part of the appeal for Arkin. Which is not to say Zobelle's views are appealing.

"If it (the show) was glorifying white power and separatism... I wouldn't be associated with it. But that's not what the job of this show is, not what I'm trying to do," he said, a hint of impatience in his voice.

"He's a fascinating character in a compelling story, and that's what is interesting," he said.

Ramsay to headline Fox's 'Master Chef'

BY DENISE MARTIN
LOS ANGELES TIMES

Fox has ordered up "Master Chef," a new reality show that will pit amateur cooks against one another in a battle for culinary supremacy.

Gordon Ramsay, star of the network's other food-centric hours, "Hell's Kitchen" and "Kitchen Nightmares," will co-produce and headline "Master Chef," based on a format that originated in the U.K. but more recently shattered ratings records in Australia.

In the Australian version, according to The Hollywood Reporter, contestants — home cooks, not professional chefs — audition by creating a dish for a panel of three judges to earn spots as semifinalists. The remaining contestants compete each week by way of team-based and individual cooking challenges until only one remains.

A premiere date has not been set for the Fox show.

Kirstie Alley to star in A&E reality series

(AP) — Kirstie Alley is going to star in a new A&E reality "docu-series" about her life as a single mom and her efforts to lose weight.

The network has ordered 10 half-hour episodes of the untitled series from "American Idol" producer FremantleMedia North America. The show will follow the actress at home with her teenage children, at work and as she launches a new weight-loss program.

The 58-year-old Alley, who starred in the sitcoms "Veronica's Closet" and "Cheers," appeared in the 2005 Showtime comedy series "Fat Actress." She played a version of herself coping with Hollywood's fixation on thinness.

The A&E series is to air next year.

Rihanna says dealing with assault difficult

(AP) — Rihanna (ree-

AH'-nah) says dealing with the media attention after ex-boyfriend Chris Brown's assault was humiliating, but she now hopes to speak for young women who are afraid to talk openly about domestic violence.

The pop star told Glamour magazine in an interview posted online Tuesday that the police photo of her bruised face that was leaked to reporters added insult to injury.

The 21-year-old says she felt disappointed and taken advantage of, especially when she heard that the two officers under investigation for the leak are women.
